Quota Scheme of Marketing Proposed

Winnipeg, July 12.—A wheat export quota plan, based on international agreement with establishment of national marketing boards in each of the principal exporting countries, is favored by the wheat producers of the western provinces.

Previously, the policy had favored average reduction scenarios as a means of eliminating the abnormality of large world carryovers of today, but in announcing their stand for an international export quota plan, George W. Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan wheat pool, speaking at Yorkton, said:

"It would appear that a bushelage rather than an average basis gives the best hope of success in bringing about a better relationship between wheat production and consumption. Control over exports by the principal wheat-exporting countries through a quota plan would tend to relieve pressure on world markets and prevent one country from dumping wheat against other countries in an effort to secure the largest possible share of the world's trade."

Under the international plan, the individual grower would be under no restrictions whatever as to acreage and production, but the maximum amount of wheat which he could market from any given crop would be fixed as a result of the quota agreement.

How he treated the balance, Mr. Robertson explained, would be entirely in his own hands. Legislation enacted to provide for straight acreage reduction would be exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to enforce, he believed.

An international agreement would provide for the allocation of quotas to be delivered by the provincial exporting nations on the basis of world requirements, remove the existing abnormal surplus from a position of constant threat to the market, and should the government aid the producers by bringing him more remunerative returns without penalizing the consumer.

GRAVELLING TO BE LESS COSTLY

Edmonton, July 11.—With lower prices to the gravelers prevailing than last year, two graveling contracts were let on Tuesday, according to an announcement made by Hon. O. L. McLean, minister of public works.

Work on all projects will commence at once and several weeks will be required to complete the work without delay.

All projects are for the replacement of gravel with approximately 400 cubic yards of gravel being required per mile.

The project of 16 miles on the Edmonton-Lloydminster highway, between Lloydminster and Kitchissippi, has been awarded to Messrs. J. and Son, Carstairs. This work will consist of hauling gravel from stock piles.

The same firm was the successful tenderer on 43 miles of work between Okotoks and Turner Valley, and between Midnapore and Turner Valley.

Gravel also has to be crushed and hauled from the local pit.

Fitzgerald and Starky of this city forwarded the successful bids for 30 miles from Edmonton east to Chipman Corner and from Edmonton west in certain sections totalling 35 miles between here and Stony Plain; 20 miles between Stony Plain and Styal. Gravel will be obtained from the Cloverbar pit and will be both crushed and hauled.

SEVEN YEAR OLD GIRL FROM ALIX DIES IN WATER

Lacombe, July 9.—Phyllis Clark, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Clark, Alix, was drowned in Gull Lake yesterday afternoon.

The young girl went in swimming between 4 and 5 o'clock accompanied by her brothers and sisters and other children, but when the party left the water it was not noticed that she was not included.

It is presumed the deceased either remained in the lake after her group left or returned for another swim. She was not missed until about a week later when a hastily organized search revealed her body in shallow water. She had been dead two or three hours.

HOPPERS BLOT OUT SUN

Regina, July 17.—Grasshoppers flying in such a thick cloud they blotted out the sun, Friday at 11:35 o'clock in the morning, caused townspeople to turn on their lights.

Such was the unbelievable report reaching Canadian Pacific railway officials here on Saturday with the receipt of the daily crop report. Railway dispatchers at Shewanauan reiterated it was true.

Reports received Saturday indicated the grasshoppers having striped the wheat and corn heavily damaged in Roche Persee and adjoining areas in the southern part of the province Friday, moved off on huge clouds towards the northwest. Only one small valley in the whole Roche Persee area escaped untouched.

LUTHERAN SYNOD IN CONVENTION HERE

The Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Manitoba and other provinces assembled for its annual convention at Wetsaskiwin, July 5th to 9th, in St. John's Lutheran church, Rev. H. Klingbeil, B.A., Pastor. At the opening service, during which Holy Communion was observed, the speaker, Rev. Thos. Harig, took as his text, Romans 12:12, thus giving the gathering a very fitting and timely keynote: "Rejoice in hope, be patient in tribulation, continue instant in prayer."

45 pastors and about 40 lay delegates from various parts of the Prairie Provinces, answered the roll call. Two distinguished visitors from the Canada Synod in the east, Rev. J. Reble and Dr. N. Willison, the president and vice-president, respectively, were also present, bringing the greetings of that mother synod and expressing the hope that a closer cooperation between the different sections of the church in this fair and far-flung Dominion may be achieved to the advantage and benefit of all.

The convention enthusiastically approved the action of the Synodical Executive Board in participating in the formation of a Canadian Lutheran Survey Committee, which has set itself the task of discovering ways and means of attaining a most desirable ideal: a United Lutheran Church in Canada. A first step in this direction was taken, when the Canada Lutheran, of which Dr. Willison is the editor was adopted as the official English Church Paper of the Manitoba Synod, thus extending its scope from coast to coast.

The President's report gratefully evidenced very encouraging progress. The depression notwithstanding, new fields could be opened by the Field Missionaries in every Province. Several churches and parsonages could be erected, particularly in Northern Alberta, and aid given to new and needy settlers through the cheerful and unstinting support of the Church in the east. A net gain of nearly 1,000 souls was recorded by the statistics.

The college and seminary at Saskatoon again witnessed its usefulness and blessing in offering six candidates of theology to the Synod for service in its vast constituency. Though certain restrictions have been found necessary or advisable, this institution looks forward to the future with confidence and hope under the leadership of its newly-elected acting president, Rev. W. Macneil.

Officers of Synod whose term of service had expired, were re-elected as follows: Vice-President, Rev. C. Kleinert, Edmonton; Secretary, Rev. G. A. Helmman, Emerson, Man.; Treasurer, Rev. M. Ruolus, D.D., Winnipeg.

On Sunday various missionary services were held in Wetsaskiwin and adjacent parishes, visiting ministers officiating. At St. John's Candidate A. Wolfram was ordained to the ministry, Rev. W. Macneil preaching the ordination sermon.

ELDER MCLEAN GETS DEATH SENTENCE ON SON'S CONFESSION

Vegreville, July 11.—After an absence of 70 minutes the jury in the case of Kenneth McLean charged with the murder of W. J. Parille brought in a verdict of guilty at 4:00 Monday afternoon. Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, the prisoner arose and answered: "Not much, I am ready for the rap, I have faced death too often to squeal out of it now."

Accordingly and without further ado, Mr. Justice Tweedie imposed the dread sentence of death, the execution to take place at the Port Saskatchewan jail on the morning of October 6th next, the same date as that set for the execution of the son of the accused by Mr. Justice Ewing.

Emotion was shown by the judge, jury or the prisoner, and the testimony following as it did on the testimony of William McLean was in the nature of a foregone conclusion.

Following on the imposition of sentence the court room was cleared of all the close relatives of the prisoner who were then permitted a few last words with him prior to his removal to the death cell at Port Saskatchewan.

CAMROSE LIBERALS MEET

Camrose, July 10.—Almost every district was represented at the organizational meeting of the Camrose provincial Liberal Constituency association. The meeting accomplished its objective of organizing every polling division. It was agreed that the executive should call a nominating convention at the earliest possible date. The association will unite with the Camrose federal Liberal body in welcoming Hon. MacKenzie King when he visits Camrose in his western tour. J. T. Johnson was elected president, succeeding James Hannan, and James Carver secretary.

U.F.A. MEMBER ON TOUR

Winnipeg, July 10.—William Irvine, M.P. for Wetsaskiwin constituency, addressed meetings at Minnabie, Knob Hill, Pandory and Norbeck recently, his subject, "The depression and a way out." Meetings were largely attended.

A large number of the members of the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. of Wetsaskiwin went to Red Deer Wednesday to join in the Twelfth of July celebration being held there.

Obituary

MRS. R. NYMAN

Just as we are going to press we learn of the demise of Mrs. R. Nyman of the Haultain district, who passed away Wednesday morning at 11:30 a.m. after an illness of only a few weeks' duration. She was well known in Wetsaskiwin and district, as Mr. Nyman conducted a jewelry store here for a number of years. The funeral takes place on Friday afternoon from the Nashville Baptist church.

ROOSEVELT WAS WELL PREPARED

C. O. Smith, writing from Washington to the Calgary Herald, says of President Roosevelt:

"Intimate friends now members of the White House staff have let it be known that Roosevelt did not come unprepared into the White House. The Executive mansion has been his objective since those early days when he served as assistant secretary of the navy under Wilson. Not even the terrible ordeal of infantile paralysis shattered that determination. All those years he was preparing himself. From the date of his election as governor of New York he was putting into practice the fruits of his study of public problems. From the time when he was elected president nomination within his grasp he was working with trained experts in government, in banking, in agriculture, in transportation, in social problems seeking solutions of the puzzles created by depression."

The Roosevelt legislative programme flowed to Congress from the executive office in a flood swelling to the American public. To Roosevelt the process was orderly and simple. The substance of each measure had been agreed on long before being written into a message or a bill.

This is not to say that President Roosevelt's has been done easily. No man alive could have the multitudinous responsibilities of the White House. His work in these three months has been tremendously difficult. But Roosevelt confronts the tasks and troubles of each day with cheerfulness and courage, with confidence.

By cheerfulness and courage Franklin D. Roosevelt has won his most conspicuous triumph over physical adversity and the same great qualities have given him victory over political adversaries, amazing success in pushing an extraordinary mass of legislation through Congress and the strongest position any president has had since Abraham Lincoln in his hold upon the American people.

Weddings

NELSON-ANDERSON

The Baptist parsonage, on Wednesday, July 12th, was the scene of a very pretty wedding. When Agnes Desideria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Anderson of Brightview, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Nels Vernon, the youngest son of the late Mr. Nels Nelson and Mrs. Nelson, of Wetsaskiwin. Rev. P. M. Meyer was the officiating minister.

The bride looked charming in a gown of pale blue georgette, whose bodice was fashioned simply with tiered cape sleeves, the long skirt falling in soft folds to the floor. Over her gown she wore a pale blue sweater coat. Her hat and slippers were in white.

After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded to the bride's home where a reception was held.

The young couple, after a short wedding trip, are now residing on the groom's farm in the Weller district. The many friends of this popular couple wish them a very happy married life.

MOHLER-BERGEN

A pretty wedding of two well-known young people, Miss Florence Bergen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bergen of Wetsaskiwin, and Donald Mohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mohler, of Oxbow, took place at the home of the bride's parents, the church at 7:30 a.m., Saturday, July 1.

The youthful bride was daintily dressed in white organdie, with hat to match and carried a bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley. The matron of honor, Mrs. W. G. Atkinson, was becomingly gowned in pink voile and hat to match. The bridegroom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Francis Mohler. During the signing of the register Miss Gladys Mohler sang very charmingly. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mohler motored to Wetsaskiwin for the wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple left later for Banff and Sylvan Lake, and on their return they will reside in Oxbow. For travelling the bride chose a white wool costume.

WHITBY-WALKER

A very pretty wedding took place at St. John's pro-cathedral on Wednesday morning, July 5, at 10:00 o'clock, when the Rev. Canon E. Pierce-Goulding united in marriage Eva Blamford Walker, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. H. C. R. Walker of Wetsaskiwin, and Mr. Franklin Marjorie Whitby, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitby of Edmonton. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. H. R. Walker of Vegreville, was a graceful figure in a gown of peach crepe with a blue organdie jacket, blue blue picture and a peach velvet ribbon delightfully carried out the color scheme. She carried a bouquet of opelia roses. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's sister.

Money Affairs Deleted From Agenda of Parley

At its outdoor wedding on the lawn of the home of the bride's parents, Miss Helen Lucille Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peterson, White Bear, was united in marriage to the Rev. P. Elmer Landerdahl, of Wetsaskiwin, Alta., Canada, on Wednesday afternoon, June 21.

London, July 11.—Monetary questions, tariffs and import quotas were finally cut out of the agenda of the world conference today in an amiable truce with the European gold bloc.

Great Britain, the dominions and the United States acquiesced in the gold-standard nations' decision that nothing can be accomplished satisfactorily on the more important monetary questions so long as there is no stabilization of the exchange rate. There can be no stabilization until the United States changes its attitude.

To this extent the conference was right back where it was in the early part of last week, but there was an important difference. Then the increased gold-standard delegates were ready to quit the parley. Now, there are well satisfied monetary questions are dropped and they will keep on working at the other questions.

The conference will go on, but it is expected to continue only two or three weeks in order to reach agreement on the non-contentious questions left on the agenda. Then the plan is to adjourn the conference proper until the autumn, leaving some committees at work and hoping that before the conference meets again the United States will be willing to stand on its feet.

In that event, the conference might tackle properly the broad program originally laid before it. Many delegates tonight were very hopeful about this end.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, who characterized today's decisions as permitting the work to go smoothly, is prepared to return with the Canadian delegation at the end of July.

The Steering committee this afternoon accepted the recommendations of a special drafting committee of the full monetary commission, a committee of which President Bennett was a member. It decided it was no use going on with problems on which unanimous agreement is not likely.

The questions left on the agenda are meaning long and short term commercial loans, not war debts; along with central banking co-operation, creation of central banks in countries which haven't got them now; stabilization of silver and other questions on which the respective subcommittees think there is a chance of agreement.

Placing indebtedness, first on the new agenda was regarded as a good idea. France herself wanted to place her allies among the small European countries.

A whole host of projects are under way outside the conference room, and the outlook for some of them is most promising. Canada especially has been working actively with the other empire delegations on a furtherance of empire trade and straightening out the empire currency tangle, but what progress, if any, has been made on these topics of vital interest to the empire, is being closely guarded.

Air Stewardess

(Condensed from The Atlantic
Monthly in Readers Digest)

The shatter-proof windows by my elbow quiver, a mute defiance to the air that rushes past them on the other side. It is dark, but the blue flashes from the outboard exhausts light the silhouette of a girl in uniform, seated at the back of the cabin. Here is the newest career in the world.

The tri-motor is laboring up, all engines wide open, headed at a block wall that towers 7,000 feet high—the Rockies. The young stewardess looks vigilantly up the aisle. The shaded reading lamps are all switched off. In the dimly light from the engine exhausts she can make out the twin lines of white pillows on the tip of the back seats, the blanketed forms, most of them asleep. Ahead of sight are the pilots; but the cabin, with its freight of passengers—that is her own responsibility.

An eighth of an inch from her elbow on the other side of the glass the air is heating past at two miles a minute and outside the heated cabin it is 15 below zero.

Number 8, the one with the baby, is asleep. She is holding the baby, she protested that she could not close her eyes. Poor thing, she needs all the sleep she can get, the baby is to be operated on tomorrow in Detroit. The stewardess walks up and peers a minute. Just so, nearly a century ago, stood her great-grandmother, shielding the flickering candlelight from an ailing child inside a covered wagon. The old Overland Trail ribbons have faded.

Covered wagon, overland stage, railroad—and now these huge air transports. History, in different guises, repeats itself. Here are pipes for heating, air vents, a lavatory, with hot and cold water. All so familiar that one accepts it with hardly a second thought for the incredible picture that it spells—the comforts of a home, wrapped up compactly in a club car, tearing through the clouds.

The air stewardesses on the transcontinental run from Chicago to Oakland number 25, and are chosen from 5,000 applicants. Apparently there is no other job so attractive to the American girl. Eleven thousand miles a month is the distance each of these girls averages, the equivalent to five or a half times around the world every year.

"How do you select the girls?" "Well," she said, "to begin with, every one of them has to be a trained nurse, a graduate from some big hospital. It isn't so much that we need actual medical skill, but hospital routine eliminates all the lightweights early in the game. It's a grand training for any girl. It teaches her to be as neat as a new pin. It teaches her how to be firm without giving offence; how to prepare meals tastefully—none of the slap-dash picnic stuff. Of course, we don't disparage the other virtues. A pretty face hasn't yet been known to cause a slump in passenger traffic. But it isn't essential."

"I was shown some of the rejected applications. The postmarks were from all over the United States. They advanced their ideas of qualification; one adored fast driving; another was a cabaret hostess, used to entertaining; another was bright with rough horses; still another 'didn't mind the risk.' All of them sought to give an impression of recklessness and dash. The company in turn, sought dependability. The duties of air hostesses are elastic. Normally her job is this: First, she has charge of the ship's papers, which are many, and of a company inter-airport mail. She has to take tickets and check baggage slips. She has to keep true of equipment such as blankets, pillows and slippers. She has to adjust ventilators and keep her clientele supplied with magazines, writing materials, maps, aspirin, ash trays, or matches, gum for air sickness, cotton wool for nose—whatever fancy may happen to demand, short of pulling rabbits out of hats.

She dispatches telegrams and radios. She is thoroughly drilled in the geography of the country over which she flies. If that little ridge over to the left is where Indians fell over a train of covered wagons in 1851, her passengers want to know about it. She must serve meals at regular meal times. Many mothers with babies use the air transport lines in preference to the trains so that they may cut down travelling time. A stewardess is used to rolling up her sleeves, producing a bottle at the correct temperature and going into action as a temporary nursemaid.

Air sickness, contrary to general belief, is the least of the stewardess's worries. The percentage of airsick passengers is under five, and even that is usually caused by nervousness on the part of those who have never flown before.

As for flying—through long summer days, when the air is diamond clear in all directions for 10 miles, the vast heart of America spreads out in a splendid panorama below. But there are other times, too, and less pleasant to remember. The gloom of winter afternoons, black overhead, queer lights reflected from the snow beneath the dark, savage rock masses washed by swirls of snow. The passengers are nervous. The stewardess, that up and down front in the cockpit the pilots are doing their stuff, steady and imperturbable as ever. But the other end, back here in the cabin, facing the anxious eyes, this is her domain, this is the human side. Smile—and make it convincing. Serve coffee and biscuits. Light cigarettes, light cheerful, don't even glance at the windows. The passengers relax; if a mere girl

Junior Lends His Voice

Dismay gripped Harold Lancaster as lusty howls from the bedroom told him his infant nephew was awake. They realized the fears he had experienced when, answering a hurried call from his sister which told him he was wanted at the airport, but not why, he had been faced by the request that he spend the evening as Junior's nurse.

"Jim utterly forgot it was the maid's night out and came home with two tickets to the theatre," Anne Montgomery had explained. "We can't afford not to use them, there is one I can get now to stay with Junior and so."

"You elected me and got me over here by a ruse, knowing I'd refuse if I knew what you wanted," Harold interrupted with a very smile. "I'm a fond brother and a doting uncle, Anne, but babies are hardly in my line. Suppose he should start crying?"

"He won't," Anne said confidently. "Once in bed, he hardly ever turns over, much less weeps. All you have to do is to look at him once in a while, make sure he's covered and be here if anything should happen—like the house catching fire or burglars getting in. Please, Harold, Harold tried not to be moved by her eager, pleading face. She seldom got out, he knew, and as she had said, they could not afford to waste the tickets.

Still, minding a baby—"If you will, Harold, I'll get up a special dinner for you one night next week, all your favorite dishes," Anne intruded upon his thoughts. "And I'll have Adelaide Hopkins in, too. You've been wanting to meet her, haven't you?"

"You mean you've been wanting me to meet her," Harold corrected. "I can see through you, Sis. Want to marry me off and you've picked this paragon of yours as the bride, eh? Well, I'll stay with Junior and take the dinner as my reward—on one condition. You won't ask Miss Hopkins."

That had been two hours before and now here was Junior howling lustily, and Harold without the faintest idea why, or what to do about it. Reluctantly, he entered the bedroom and stood looking down at the squawking baby. He tried showing Junior some of his toys, made faces at him, even essayed to sing, without the slightest effect.

His eyes, roving desperately about the room, fell upon the telephone and inspiration was born. With the baby in one arm, he crossed swiftly to it and took down the receiver.

"Number, please," rather sharply. "I don't want a number," said Harold. "I want to know how to make this baby stop crying."

Isn't worried why should they be?

All this is routine stuff. But once in a thousand times, perhaps, the ship has to remain for a long time on a remote emergency landing field. Then the chic uniform and immaculate milk blouse of the stewardess go hang, while their owner peels potatoes, tends store, and assists some farmer's harassed wife to organize the slim resources. Clean shoes and silk stockings, plow through deep farmyard mud, while the stewardess tries not to let her smile appear too glassy.

It takes more than mere charm to combine flying and farm cooking, good humor and the quick response to passengers' services and sleeplessness.

Any night, every night, the transcontinental ships roar across the vast width of our country. At two miles a minute they reel off those great stretches which the pioneers of another day conquered so heroically, mile by indomitable mile. It is another element, but it is still the same spirit.

The pioneer, driving his team, trusted the stars to guide him in the cool of night. Today the pilot has radium dials and airway beacons. But up or down and over or under, the dark, savage power or 1000, poke bonnets, or natty berets, their womenfolk have not changed intrinsically. Win or lose the pioneer wears a slicker by the man up front. Her life is in his hands, and that's all right with her, too. As in the wagons, which croaked and swayed and trembled in their mile-an-hour progress so ended these man-made titans of the air is the same text, still rendered and golden: "No back-seat driving, please!"

"We are not allowed to give information," primly.

"Look here," Harold spoke rapidly. "This is my sister's baby. She and her husband have gone out to the theatre. I'm a bachelor and here alone with this child. You're a woman. Can't you give me an idea how to shut him up?"

For a moment there was silence and he wondered if she had cut him out. Then—in a whisper, as if fearful a supervisor might hear—he scolded: "He sounds as if he wanted a drink. Have you tried giving him water?"

Then the plug was very definitely withdrawn.

Harold hastily procured a glass of water, fed the liquid to Junior with a spoon until he refused more and was rewarded by his going promptly back to sleep.

Back in the living room Harold found the book he had been reading had lost its flavor. His thoughts insisted upon dwelling upon the telephone operator who might have been risking her job to help him. The doorbell rang. Puzzled, he opened it. In the hallway stood the girl he had dreamed about for years, but strange to say, the wisps of her hair were tucked up in a bun.

"Did the water do the trick?" she asked with a smile. "I don't hear Junior crying now."

While he stared again she hurried on. "I live upstairs. I know Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery well. I'm fond of Junior and I can interpret his cries almost as well as his mother. Was it water he wanted?"

Harold found his tongue at last. "Yes, yes," he almost shouted. "Please come in while I thank you for what you did. Anne will be here soon and I'll have her introduce us properly. Meanwhile, forget convention and—"

She yielded after a bit and it was with a start that Harold realized an hour had passed when he heard Jim's latchkey in the door.

Anne stopped short at sight of them, apparently old friends already.

"Introduce us, Sis," Harold begged. "I promised I wouldn't insist upon her name until you did after what we'll tell you what it is all about." Anne burst into a peal of laughter and in the background her husband almost exploded. Then:

"Miss Hopkins, Miss Adelaide Hopkins may I present my brother, Harold Lancaster?" said Anne. "I'm sure you both have been dying to meet each other, eh, Harold?"

ODD—but True!

WOMEN STAND ADVERSITY WELL

Although depression has driven a great many men to insanity and nervous disorders, its effect on women has been largely beneficial, according to Dr. Karl M. Bowman, assistant professor of psychiatry at Harvard medical school.

"The effect, as far as nervous disorders are concerned," Dr. Bowman said, "has been much like the effect on many women during the war. They were used to sitting around life and worrying about themselves, but once the war got under way the war occupied themselves with Red Cross work and other activities and forgot their imaginary troubles."

"The depression has given these women something to do, and its effects have been a blessing to the idle rich type, who had too much money for their own good and nothing to occupy themselves."

"Men, on the other hand, have probably increased nervous disorders. Many have broken under the strain, but strange to say, the wisps of her hair were tucked up in a bun. hit by adversity are, on the whole, not nearly so badly affected."

"A study of hospitals throughout the state revealed no increase in the number of women psychiatric cases since the depression, the greater number, in almost every hospital, being men."

MECHANISM OF THE EAR

The mechanism of the human ear has been known during long ages, but the manner in which it conveys definite information to the brain is another matter. The world is still far from a final pronouncement, however, learnedly one may speak of sound-waves striking upon the drum of the eardrum and establishing a vibration which is communicated to the brain by a row of white threads attached to a series of wonderfully articulated bones. That the threads, like the aerials which catch the flutterings of the ether bearing sounds across the oceans, and give them rebirth exactly as they were born thousands of miles away, to the last squeak of the clarinet or chirp of the piccolo; translate to human brains the meaning conveyed by the air vibrations which tap against the eardrum or tympanum does not greatly help. A writer says: "We call the threads nerves, but how the tympanum adapts itself by contraction and relaxation to the different pitch of sound without our well intervening has no idea. We know only that it does."

A Breaking Out of Boils An Evidence of Impure Blood

Boils are one of the worst afflictions of the human body, for just as soon as you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place, seemingly, just to prolong your agony.

There is one way to eradicate these painful and annoying cancer pests from the system, and that is by giving the Muc-A a thorough cleansing.

There is no better blood cleanser than Burdock Blood Bitters. It removes the foul matter from the blood, and when this is done the boils soon disappear.

SHORTHORN BREEDERS ARRANGE FIELD DAY

Program of the field day arranged by the Alberta Shorthorn Breeders' Association, to be held at the Lacombe Experimental Station, Monday, July 17, and which will be attended by the Hon. Robert Weir, federal minister of agriculture, and members of his staff, has been announced by the club secretary, H. S. Trame, Lacombe.

Members and their friends will meet at the station at 11 a.m. and until the afternoon.

At 1:30 p.m., Frank H. Reed, superintendent of the station, will extend a welcome to the visitors, and the Hon. George Hoadley will present the main speaker, Mr. Weir.

Dr. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture for the Dominion, will be introduced by W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Prince of Wales ranch, Pekisko. Following Dr. Barton's address, the president of the association, W. W. Sharpe, Lacombe, will introduce other prominent visitors.

Farm livestock will be paraded at the conclusion of the speaking, and a judging competition, presided over by G. E. Day, Guelph, president of the Canadian Shorthorn Breeders' Association and J. W. Durno, Alberta fieldman.

The day will conclude with an inspection of field crops and pits. Officers of the association and of the experimental station have extended an invitation to all livestock admirers to attend this event.

LEFT-HANDED CHILDREN

Kettering education committee has forbidden its teachers to stop left-handed children from using the left hand for writing and other manual work. This has been done in consequence of a report by Dr. C. B. Hogg, the medical officer, whose attention has been directed to certain cases of stammering. The inquiries revealed that a number of these cases were left-handed children who had been converted to writing with their right hands.

Dr. Hogg cited facts showing that of 41 left-handed children who were compelled to use the right hand 24 became stammerers. In a further case 12 right-handed children were trained to use the left hand, and within five months all developed stammer.

Not very long ago I was a guest at a most amusing party. It was a large affair and might have been hard to manage if the hostess had not been incredibly clever.

During the first part of the evening there was an old song contest which provoked gales of laughter—slips of paper and pencils were passed and the guests were asked to write in order, the names of the songs, stanzas of which were played on the piano. The prize for this was a bound volume of "College Songs"—which were so popular some years back.

Then we danced—the Virginia reel and the rye waltz. Somebody performed a cake walk and one venture couple did the lancers.

When we filed out for dinner we found no place cards. Instead there were tiny cloisonne picture frames on the table, each one containing an old picture of one of the guests. It was almost impossible to identify some of them—even baby pictures appeared in the collection—but eventually all were located and the dinner progressed merrily.

The food, of course, was as up-to-date as it could be and conversation didn't lag for an instant.

The table decorations were simple, a centerpiece of flowers set between two candlesticks, most effective. The party is unforgettable because it is unique and can be used for any number of people. Why don't you have one?

WHY ARE THE BLUE NOSES DOMINATING CANADIAN AFFAIRS

The Halifax Herald has made a survey of the achievements of Maritime Provincians men in other parts of Canada. The result reads like the story of Scrooge in London. Beginning with Premier Bennett, who, of course, is a New Brunswicker, the list of Maritimers who are leading it over the rest of us all but makes one think that the greatest misfortune that can befall a man in Canada is not to be born in either New Brunswick or Nova Scotia. Blue noses dominate parliament. Not satisfied with the premiership the post of finance minister is in the hands of a Nova Scotian, with the job of financial critic of the opposition to another Nova Scotian, as though for good measure. Then, of course, there is Mr. C. H. Cahan, another Nova Scotian, and one of the most eminent of House of Commons leaders.

Maritimers run our railways. When Frank A. Young, a New Brunswicker, quit the chairmanship of the Railway Commission he was succeeded by Judge McKewen, another Brunswicker, and now the job is held by still another Maritimer, Mr. C. P. Fullerton. At that, they are telling that Mr. Fullerton may become chairman of the Canadian Board of Inland Transport, with Justice Dymally, another Maritimer, to become head of the railway commission.—Ottawa Journal.

HOW TO REVIVE A DROWNED PERSON

(By Dr. William J. Scholes)
Most persons who have been submerged in water for five minutes are dead when taken out, and all efforts to resuscitate them are usually fruitless.

It occasionally happens, however, that one pronounced dead is revived, and every one should be familiar with the best method of giving first aid to the drowned.

The first step is expulsion of the water from the lungs. Most people start by holding the patient up by his feet and let the head hang down. This, of course, provided there is someone present strong enough to perform this action. Otherwise, placing the subject in the prone position and raising him in such a manner that his head will be lower than his feet is the second best procedure. Having expelled the water the next step is artificial respiration.

The Schafer Method
The best system of reviving the drowned is the one devised by Schafer. He claims several advantages for his method, viz., (1) It is simple and easily mastered. (2) It can be performed by one person without becoming fatigued. (3) The mouth and water are expelled and prevented from blocking the passage of air in and out of the lungs. The Schafer method, briefly described is as follows: Place the patient in the prone position (face down). Stand astride him and place the hands on either side over the lower ribs. Make firm but not violent pressure, allowing the weight of the body to come on the arms. Maintain this pressure for three seconds, then relax and at the same time bring the patient's body upward. Repeat the entire movement at intervals of five seconds—twelve times a minute.

Accessory Measures
During all this time the patient should be kept warm as possible. He should first be dried thoroughly and then wrapped in warm blankets. Friction of the surface of the body from the extremities toward the center should be kept up simultaneously with the artificial respiration. After the heart action has definitely stopped there is little use in continuing efforts to restore breathing. However, so long as the heart is beating, artificial respiration should be maintained regularly and systematically. It should be thus continued for two hours before hope is abandoned.—Copyright.

FROM HIS STANDPOINT
When Moses was told that poor Rastus had been shot dead by Judge Higgs while he was stealing the judge's chickens, he merely replied: "Oh, well, it might have been worse." "How could it have been worse?" indignantly asked the informant. "Poor Rastus dead! De judge just natchully blow de head right off of him. What could he worse dan dat?" "It might have been worse," replied Moses, "if de judge fire off de gun de night before, he might have blown de head off of me!"

DECLARES WAR ON SLUMS

Great Britain has declared a five-year war to the finish on her slums. Tumbledown alley dwellings, basement caves and insanitary "back-to-backs"—hubs of tuberculosis, rickets, anemia and other diseases—are slated to be wiped out.

The government's move against the plague spots is motivated by the peevish but sound logic of the high cost of valuing low building costs and low rates of interest on money, together with a desire to ease the pinch of unemployment.

To insure immediate action the minister of health has called upon all housing authorities in England and Wales to submit by Sept. 30 a series of programs drawn on the basis of clearing all such areas by 1938.

Each program is to include a list of the areas in each locality, the number of houses to be demolished, the number of inhabitants affected, a list of areas where improvement by reconditioning is necessary and time tables for complete clearance, improvement and rehousing of the displaced dwellers.

"The time limit is the very essence of this program," says Sir Edward Hinton Young, Minister of Health. "The time limit must, of course, give reasonable time for the work, but it must be fixed absolutely."

No one knows the complete extent of the slum problem in the land, though the estimate generally given is that 1,000,000 dwellings must go to make room for the programs from every area.

An up-to-date picture, however, will be available by Sept. 30, the deadline for the program from every area.

The great mass of the slum dwellings is more than a century old, harking back to the days of quick industrialization of the country when houses sprang up like mushrooms around the factories.

But the problem is not limited to the cities. Unhealthy conditions flourish in many villages and these, too, are on the books for destruction.

Among cities, the slum evil is its worst in the industrial and mining areas. Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Leeds, Bristol, Hull, Sheffield and scores of other cities have serious slum sections.

London, because of the great population crammed into a relatively small area, presents a problem of its own and it is believed that the five-year grace period may have to be lengthened for abolition of the sore spots.

In the wake of the government's determination on action a fiery campaign is being pursued by the press to keep the spirit for wholesale and immediate reform at high pitch. The Archbishop of Canterbury and York have penned vigorous appeals and the Prince of Wales who knows great areas of the slums by periodic visits, has voiced the support of the royal family.

"EDUCATION" IN THE U.S.

We are reduced to a proper state of humility by the answers of 1,397 high school students of the United States to a questionnaire concerning Canada sent them by Dr. Arthur A. Hauke, dean of Lafayette College, who has published a book about it and about a similar survey taken of 1,108 secondary students in Canada to determine their knowledge of the United States.

Here are sample observations of the American students, taken—says the Montreal Gazette—from hundreds quoted in the book:

"I am terribly ignorant in regard to Canada, and all I think of is fish, snow, cold and ice."

"This is the first time I have really thought about the Dominion of Canada. We are so close to it that there ought to be something in school about it."

"I know practically nothing about Canada except that most of the people live in old villages and are not very rich."

"There isn't anything in Canada to interest Americans but their liquor."

"Canada is a country that has not reached the type of civilization that it should have."

"Indians make up a large part of the population."

"Canada would be all right for fishing, but I don't fish."

"Most Canadians trap for a living."

"My impression of Canada is a lot of land going to waste. There are many forests, rivers, mountains, etc. interspersed here and there with an inhabitant."

Asked to vote on the "leading living Canadians" 77 of the students named Mr. Mackenzie King, 40 named Mr. R. B. Bennett, 24 Percy Williams, the sprinter, 16 went for Eddie Shore, hockey player, and 12 plunged for Mr. James Ramsay MacDonald.

No others had as many as ten votes.

TEAM WORK

It's all very well to have courage and skill.

And it's fine to be counted a star. But the single deed, with its touch of glory.

Doesn't tell us the man you are. For there's no lone hand in the game we play.

We must work to a bigger scheme. And the thing that counts in the world today.

Is how do you pull with the team? You may think it fine to be praised for skill.

But a greater thing to do is to set your mind and to set your will.

On the goal that's just in view; It's helping your fellow man to secure.

When the chances hopeless seem; It's forgetting self till the game is o'er.

And fighting for the team.

BY ITS NEWSPAPER

This week there occurred an incident, interesting at least to the local press. A business man in a remote city had contemplated purchasing a business in High River. He was in doubt as to the move, and as a precautionary measure decided to subscribe to the High River Times and find out what manner of town this might be. For six months, it seems, he has been one of our subscribers, studying news columns and advertisements, and probabilities and the class of people here. Apparently he was satisfied with what he read, though and between the pages of The Times, for he has this week arrived in the town to complete the contemplated deal.

This is one concrete instance of the unsuspected errands which the home town paper may perform, once it leaves the local office. From time to time new subscribers in distant parts of this country, or other

As has been repeated to the point of monotony, the weekly newspaper is, in a sense, the show window of the district, and the editor is constantly seeking for attractive material with which to dress his show window. It is something bright, colorful or valuable for the show window. It reflects credit on the whole High River family. And there is no telling whose eye may be attracted. ### THE PARK AT GWYNNE

Oh, you big C.N.R. men, With a mind so clear and fine, You picked a good park at Gwynne, Which is so trim.

With water to swim, Chris, Maynard, so full of glee, Will promote all the games you see, He's the mayor of our town.

Which has now become famous By the park now located at Gwynne. Just wait and see when the girls of Gwynne Come out with their softball team to win.

Our boys, with their ball, bat and kit, Will beat any team they see fit. The men of Gwynne are out to win. For there's a store, post office, telephone and hall.

Where at all times, we'll welcome one and all.

(By the Gwynne poet).

THE NEW ADVENTURE

Necessity is the mother of invention and our railways—or at least the London and North Eastern—now advance by standing still. Once expressed represented the summit of achievement on the iron road; then, much more recently, emerged the era of "mystery trains" that lolloped into unspecified regions of delight.

"Observation trains" that ambled through choicest scenery; now comes the "mystery train," which never moves at all but remains drawn up in a siding at some particularly pleasant spot on the North Eastern system such as the Chaworth branch line from Alnwick to Coldstream or the line that skirts the Roman Wall at Haltwhistle.

Intending campers apply for a carriage and say where they want it situated; they thereupon journey to the site and take possession of their railway home for 22 hours, a week during the summer months and ten shillings less in spring and autumn. For that sum they get a carriage that provides "two bedrooms, one for two people and one for four, a day room, and a small scullery."

That sounds a good deal of accommodation on rather cheap terms, but the weekly charge for the use of these specially fitted up carriages also covers "all the necessary equipment." The railway campers arrange for their own food supply and there they are. Letters of the more normal type of holiday lodgings in rural Yorkshire and Northumberland may be sent to these rural residences, but as a way of camping out the system sounds more stable and spacious, and probably more comfortable, than canvas or caravan. It may mean another anxiety for mothers of the man-child whose passion for watching the trains go by; his dearest adventure may be to stray from the siding on to the branch line. But that difficulty can be overcome. Camping parents will have to remove their brood to the moors or dales for the day and only bring them back to the home-siding at bedtime.—Manchester Guardian.

SINGING COLOR FOUNTAIN AT WORLD'S FAIR

One of the most unique attractions at the World's Fair in Chicago is the Singing Color Fountain, in the Firestone Singing Color Fountain, in the gardens surrounding the Firestone factory and exhibition building.

This gorgeous spectacle is the only one of its kind in the world. It presents in marvelous beauty a perfect harmony of music, ever-changing color combinations and variations in the rise and fall of the beautiful mystic fountain. This scientific engineering achievement is the result of years of work of some of the world's greatest electrical engineers and scientists.

This magnificent Singing Color Fountain is situated in front of the ultra-modern and attractive Firestone factory and exhibition building in the centre of the spacious garden, surrounded by trees, shrubs and beautiful flowers. The great pool is 100 feet long and 15 feet wide, out of which rise the many dome-shaped rays of varying hues penetrating the mystic fountain, the powerful light shoots twenty feet into the air—all in tune with the music. The ever-changing shots of colors and the varying velocity of the water are in complete tune with the music that fills the air from immense radio loudspeakers hidden within the walls of the building.

A MORAL FOR ALL

I read a good story the other day. A farmer had become tired of his farm. He had lived on the place all his life. He was born there. When a boy he drove the cows in the field, hoed the turnips, swam in the creek, and carried his books through the field to the little box of a school house down the road.

As a young man he plowed and harrowed in the spring, made hay and harvested the wheat and hauled fodder to the cattle in the winter. He had brought his wife to the old place and three children were born there. Now he was sick of the place. Entirely sick of it. He dreamed of a restful spot where he could spend the rest of his days in comfort.

So he went to a real estate agent in town and listed his farm for sale. The agent drove out and looked the place over. The property was in very good condition and the agent said he would have no difficulty in selling it.

When the farmer got his next week's edition of his country newspaper, he read the real estate agent's advertisement. It stated that his farm was for sale. It was all fertile—there were 40 acres of fine pasture, a fine house, barn and other buildings. It was close to town, and had a telephone. It was well stocked with pigs, horses, cattle and chickens. In fact it was an ideal farm and was an excellent buy for anyone.

The next day the farmer called at the agent's office and said: "Say, I read your advertisement in the paper as near as I can figure, that is exactly the kind of a farm I have been looking for all my life. I'll keep it myself."—Stettler Independent.

MODERN SCIENCE IN COOKING

One of the big contributions the scientists in home economics laboratories have been making to the home-maker is in the standardization of recipes.

Believing that a great deal of the uncertainty in cooking was due to uncertain measurements, trained people have been working with this problem. Now the accepted standard is that a cup means exactly two-fifths of a pint (eight ounces). There are 16 tablespoons in a cup and three teaspoons in a tablespoon.

Trained workers have also been deciding exactly how much of each ingredient should go into a recipe to give not only a passable result but a first class one.

The most recent efforts have been directed toward the combining of ingredients. It is hard to know when to beat and when to stir and how long, and precisely how to perform a large number of cookery tasks. Modern science is standardizing these important procedures.

SHIRTS FOR A SHILLING

One of the greatest hindrances to trade revival lies in the disparity that exists in the standard of living in different parts of the world. The Russian, compelled to work for a state wage, and denied the comforts to which the British laboring class have been accustomed, attempts to dispose of cheap surplus produce in British and other markets. This makes it impossible for any nation with better working conditions to produce supplies on a paying basis. But it is not Russia alone that is our rival. The most serious competitor is unquestionably Japan, which has made it practically impossible for our textile industries to regain prosperity. Articles of cotton and artificial silk were displayed in the House of Commons last week at prices no British manufacturer could touch. Shirts at a shilling each are produced wholesale by the Japanese, and socks are made by them at prices so low that they can be sold retail in this country at five cents per pair. So long as this country has to face competition of this sort we can neither command the home market nor stand the ghost of a chance in competition elsewhere. The root cause of the trouble is the difference in working hours and wages, which in turn reflect the general standard of living. How to cope with the Japanese trade menace is one of the problems that concern every other nation as well as ourselves.—The Scotsman.

Governor-General Visits Boys' Farm

The annual closing exercises of the Boys' Farm and Training School at Shawbridge, Que., were made memorable for the 150 boys of the institution recently when they were honored by the presence of the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, who addressed the school and gave out the prizes. Accompanied by E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is also president of the Boys' School, and a number of directors and wellwishers of the institution, His Excellency was the object of a great ovation by the boys on the arrival of the special train at the Farm. This is shown in top photograph of the lay-out. Lower left, the Governor-General is shown shaking hands with Major Ralph Willcock, D.S.O., superintendent of the School, and at the right His Excellency is acknowledging the plauds of the boys from the steps of the special train. It was the first time in the 25 years' existence of the School that a Governor-General of Canada had taken part in the closing exercises of the institution. His Excellency, addressing the School, stressed character as being of vital importance to success in life.

THE DANDELION

On your lawn

The dandelion was cleverly called "the tooth of the lion" in the original French from whence comes the name. It has long deep, tapering roots which, if broken off, have the capacity to form new leaves and plants. Once thoroughly established on a lawn, dandelions are most difficult to eradicate. To the distressed home beautician they are indeed like lion's teeth chewing up the beloved handiwork.

There are two effective ways of exterminating the weeds and both require considerable time and patience. The first is by trying to poison them with sprays; the second, and most efficient in the long run is killing them with kindness, that is, by the use of fertilizer.

Many of the leading horticulturists are definitely in favor of the fertilizer system and recommend the stimulation of the grass by repeated applications of sulphate of ammonia. That would be about four applications during the season, the first application being made very early in the spring, using about eight pounds of sulphate of ammonia on 1000 square feet of lawn. It will stimulate the fertilizer with a certain amount of soil in order to get uniform application, and should be applied when the grass is damp.

Here and There

Almost $20,000,000 was spent in the manufacture of toilet preparations, soaps and waxes, and compounds in Canada in 1932. A recently issued official report states that the total value of the toilet products was $5,073,134, and of the latter $1,374,549.

Forty boys scouts of Oregon and Washington made the first leg of their 8,000 mile trip to Budapest in the Princess Kaiyo, Seattle, to Vancouver. They are travelling C.P.R. across Canada to Quebec, where they will visit England on the Empress of Britain.

Alaska and the Yukon hold their popularity as summer playgrounds judging by the sizable list of passengers sailing north to Skagway, Alaska, via the Pacific coastal liners. Many of them are mining and business men, but the majority are summer tourists attracted by the rate reductions for summer Alaska travel.

Forty-three years of "active, loyal, and efficient service," with the Canadian Pacific Railway closed since 20 years ago, the retirement of W. A. Kittmerman, General Western Freight Agent, Chicago, Ill., was succeeded by L. Cardozo, Assistant General Freight Agent, and the office which the latter vacated was abolished.

For the first time since its foundation 25 years ago, the Governor-General of Canada was present at the annual closing exercises of the Royal Farm and Training School, Shawbridge, Que., recently, when the Earl of Bessborough, accompanied by W. B. Beatty, chairman of the Board of the Canadian Pacific Railway, attended the school and awarded prizes to graduates.

"There are tangible signs of business and economic improvement in Canada and the United States," Sir Josiah Stamp, Director of the Bank of England, President of the London, Midland & Scottish Railway, said in his address to the leading economists assembled recently when he sailed for England on the Empress of Britain, after a short visit to this continent.

Ten Honolulu youths between 14 and 17 years of age arrived recently at Vancouver on Canadian Australasian line "Hono-wai" en route to the Yukon where they will spend the summer in scientific research and adventure. They will sail north to Skagway, go into White Horse where they will build boats for the run down the Yukon River to Dawson.

Motion pictures of herds of caribou swimming the swift current of the Yukon River and other striking studies of life in the north have been shown recently by Harry Pollard, Assn. General Screen News photographer, who returned recently in the Princess Norah to Vancouver after six weeks in Alaska and the Yukon. He went on to Banff and Lake Louise where he will photograph mountain scenery.

A total of 616,215 persons visited the 18 national parks of Canada in the fiscal year 1931-32. These great reservations cover an aggregate area of 15,000 square miles. Each has its own attractive characteristics. There are three scenic and four animal parks in Alberta, four scenic parks in British Columbia, one scenic park in Manitoba and one in Saskatchewan; one historic park in Nova Scotia and one in New Brunswick, one recreation park in Ontario and two island park units.

The Alberta minimum wage board refused application for a 10 per cent reduction on the wage scale of women workers, giving as a reason the improving industrial conditions.

SPORT

EDMONTON ROYALS AND WETASKIWIN PLAY TIE GAME

A pitcher's battle between Rattlesnake and Piss of the Edmonton Royals featured the exhibition game here this evening before a record crowd. Rattlesnake had the satisfaction of striking out twelve of his erstwhile team mates, while Piss had eleven retired by the fan route in the eight innings played. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning, the score of two. The Royals scored in the fifth and seventh, when Piss and Carruthers crossed the platter. Piss walked, stole second and got home on R. Dolighan's single. Carruthers also walked, stole second and scored on a single by La Gore. Wetaskiwin started the scoring in the first inning when McFaul was given first by Piss being out of the box when he delivered the ball. He stole second and walked. Brera was made by Carruthers. The other run was made by Cleland in the eighth, when he got a life on Sutherland's error, and Ryan brought him home with another two-bagger.

R. Dolighan got two singles, and LaGore, Thirk, Kronfeld one each, while Ryan ha dhis eagle eye with him, getting two doubles and a single. The visitors had six hits, and scored in the Athletics' seven. During the game Thirk and Croft were hit on the head by pitched balls, but continued in the game. Brera was made by Carruthers, Sutherland and Rotkiv.

Gouchee umpired the game and gave good satisfaction.

In the third softball game, the Wetaskiwin were not so fortunate, as they were defeated by Gwynne 3-2.

WETASKIWIN LOSES SOFT BALL GAMES

On Sunday last two snappy soft ball games were played on the Wetaskiwin grounds between the N.E. Adds of Edmonton and the local team. In the first game Wetaskiwin held the visitors to a 2-0 score for the first 8 innings, but in the ninth the Adds got six runners across the plate.

The second game was also won by the visitors, but was very close, the score being 6-5. The feature of the game was a home run by Watson.

The line-up:

Edmonton—McFarlane, Stanley, Trear, Armstrong, Donovan, Foster, Kestley, Manning, D. E. Elliott, A. Elliott.

Wetaskiwin—Kronfeld, Patenado, Brown, Watson, Greiner, Brown, Ovens, McElroy, Irvine, Richards, Umpire—C. Gouchee.

BASEBALL

After several postponements owing to weather conditions, the game is again called for Friday night between Wetaskiwin and Camrose and will doubt be one of the best of the season. Camrose have an additional pitcher, Red Tulloch who plays in the Edmonton senior league, and will also have Dorsey in the infield and Nelson in the outfield, along with the regular team.

On Tuesday night the Athletics clash with their old rivals Ponika, on the local diamond.

THE MEN WHO CAN'T LOSE

The Morgan investigation has revealed, among other things, that the present financial game in Wall Street is so rigged and controlled, that the insiders cannot lose.

After the crash in October, 1929, the House of Morgan joined with some lesser magnates in what Mr. Whitney of the Morgan firm called a "rescue squad." They bought stocks to steady the market. Mr. Whitney insists that this was done without a thought of direct profits, that the sole object was to ease the market situation. But in the three weeks that the "rescue squad" worked, buying stocks damaged by hardpressed or panic stricken owners, the House of Morgan and its allies cleared a profit of more than a million dollars!

If a combination of financiers can extract profits out of a crash like that, and did it while apparently "supporting the market," where is the limit to their power?

The House of Morgan, with the aid of its allies of the inner circle of finance, has, in the first place, first hand knowledge of all moves made or soon to be made in the market. It has access to practically unlimited pools of liquid capital and credit. It has, finally, the power to bludgeon opposition out of the way, and impose its will even in the earlier stages of a financial earthquake.

To an appalling degree, it can mark the wealth and prosperity of the country up or down, and assign the benefits of industry to this group or that, and the market does get out of hand, if the crash goes further than was intended, the House of Morgan and its friends can form a "rescue squad" and make a million dollars out of "financial patriotism" in three weeks!

How long will the American people allow their lives and fortunes to be dominated by this irresponsible economic power?—Labor.

WEEKLY STOCK MARKET REPORT

The following is a report of the Edmonton Times and Herald supplied to The Times for the week ending July 11th:

Receipts: Cattle, 673; Calves, 131; Hogs, 1772; Sheep, 17.

Receipts in the cattle division so far this week were only moderate in volume and a large percentage were good to choice light dry fed butchers. The market in consequence displayed a marked improvement in action, dry fed offerings, particularly the lighter grades, were in demand, and salesmen found no difficulty in making sales at firm prices with last week's advance. A pleasing feature during the past few days was the fact that grass offerings were fewer and holdovers were not so plentiful. Grass cattle are still very undesirable and cancellations at anything like satisfactory values.

The following are the prices:

Good to choice fed calves $4.25 to $4.75; fat to mediums $3.50 to $4.00; good to choice light dry fed butchers $4.00 to $4.50; good to choice heavy dry fed steers $3.50 to $4.25; fat to mediums $3.00 to $3.50; common $2.00 to $2.50; good to choice light butchers heifers $3.75 to $4.25; fat to mediums $3.00 to $3.50; good to choice light dry fed butchers $4.00 to $4.50; good to choice heavy dry fed steers $3.50 to $4.25; fat to mediums $3.00 to $3.50; common $2.00 to $2.50; good to choice light butchers heifers $3.75 to $4.25; fat to mediums $3.00 to $3.50; good to choice light dry fed butchers $4.00 to $4.50; good to choice heavy dry fed steers $3.50 to $4.25; fat to mediums $3.00 to $3.50; common $2.00 to $2.50.

The stocker and feeder trade was not very active due to most of the offerings being on the plain order. Good to choice heavy stocker steers and heifers are quoted from $2.00 to $2.50 and plain $1.50 to $2.00; stock cows $1.25 to $1.75.

The calf market weakened today and dropped 50¢ per cwt. Good to choice veal calves were sold from $3.00 to $3.50; plain calves $2.00 to $2.50.

Hogs were firmer, the market advanced 25¢ to $2.50; good to choice bacon selling today (Tuesday) at $2.25; select bringing 50¢ per cwt. premium and butchers discounted 50¢ in the morning. The following are the prices on off-grade hogs: heavies discounted $1.25 per cwt.; extra heavies $2.00 per cwt. No. 1 sows $2.25; No. 2 sows $2.00; sows optional. Stags with tusks no value.

Sheep and lamb market was inactive, prices are about steady with the previous week. Good to choice spring lambs bringing $4.50 to $5.00; yearlings $2.00 to $3.00; and ewes $1.00 to $2.00.

THE INCOME TAX

There has been an impression among ordinary taxpayers that the income tax was about one of the fairest taxes levied in Canada, but a large income pay a proportional amount of that income into the coffers of the state. But the recent revelations at Vancouver have caused many to review their beliefs concerning the income tax. It was revealed that the exceedingly wealthy partners in the great banking house of Morgan & Co. did not pay one dollar of income tax during the last two years and during this same time hundreds of thousands of poor men paid the income tax in full on their small incomes. This revelation has made the small taxpayer think, and think hard, as to how he is to get out of the income tax. This does not seem fair to the poorer man.—The New Outlook.

Gold washers on the river west of Edmonton agreed to release the government from responsibility for relief for two months, and will tie up the river with such relief from the Red Cross as may be necessary.

ALBERTA BAPTIST BIBLE ACADEMY

The Alberta Swedish Baptist Conference, meeting at Mallak last week took steps to make some important advance in their winter Bible school. Therefore it has been known as the Wetaskiwin Bible Institute. Now, in consideration of its new program, it is to be renamed Alberta Baptist Bible Academy.

During the past eight years of its history it has always offered a six week's course of five days per week. The new plan calls for a session of nine weeks, with school work six days per week. The former plan offered three recitations per day; the new arrangement calls for four daily recitations. The old plan offered a rotating two-year course, the new curriculum will offer a four-year course. Under the old plan a student could gain three semester hours of standard scholastic work in six weeks. The new schedule will afford twelve semester hours in the four year course, forty-eight semester hour credits will be gained. A diploma or certificate of graduation will be awarded on completion of the four year course. The Conference has requested Evangelist Ray C. York, D.D., of Kansas City, to act as principal and instructor for the coming year, and he has consented to do so, on the condition that not less than fifty students sign up for the course before October 31. Dr. York is spending the summer in evangelistic work among the Swedish churches and as Bible teacher at their assembly at Red Deer Lake, July 31 to August 7. Dr. York is a graduate of the University of Illinois, College (Baptist) of Liberty, Missouri, and of the Kansas City Baptist Theological Seminary (B.D.) and has received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Grand Island College (Baptist) of Grand Island, Nebraska. He is well prepared to give instruction of standard scholastic work. He is a staunch Baptist and believes in and teaches the orthodox and fundamental tenets of the old time Baptist faith. Under his leadership the young people will be grounded in the evangelical truth and will be fortified against liberalism.

NEIGHBORS

When you came into the world, it was the neighbors who cheered your parents by raising your first smile.

Now that you are a man, with a citizen's responsibilities, it is your neighbors who help carry these responsibilities and who stand by to help you in your defeats and to cheer you in your victories.

When you die your neighbors will shed a few tears, and sing a few songs, and say a prayer over you.

When you have a favor to bestow, even though it be only the favor of your patronage, wouldn't it be good sportsmanship to bestow that favor upon your neighbor?

So when you find yourself in need of a monkey wrench a pair of pants, shoes, automobiles, groceries, some printing, or an insurance policy—to buy it from your neighbor is the next best thing to buy from the store.

THE TIRE THAT TAUGHT THRIFT TO THOUSANDS

CO-OPERATION A MATTER OF CO-OPERATION

Dean E. A. Howes, head of the department of agriculture at the University of Alberta, speaking to a meeting of young farm people recently said: "I believe in co-operation almost as a religion. It is not alone a principle of buying and selling, it is a spirit, a way of life, something in the heart rather than in the head; it is a matter of character and the present time is its testing time. In a co-operative enterprise the question should be: 'How much can I put into it?' not 'How much can I get out of it?' For the returns are in direct proportion to the expenditures." The speaker begged the boys and girls to support co-operative enterprises as their greatest hope for success and advancement.

FIVE YEARS WITHOUT RAIN

Farmers who cry for more rain although it may have been only a matter of days or weeks since there was a downpour, should be thankful the chances of birth did not bring them into the world in the province of Shanah, China. There, there has been no rain for five years. Normally, it is a fertile land, one of the richest agricultural territories in the country, and peopled by men and women of fine physique and steady industry.

Today they are starving. They have no crops or live stock to speak of. They have died by tens of thousands of starvation. They live remote from railways and other means of transport and from ordinary communications. They have suffered and died in silence in the hinterland of a country that is almost too vast to comprehend.

DISCUSS WHEAT ACREAGE REDUCTION

A number of sessions of representatives of the "big four" wheat exporting countries—United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia—have been held in London, England, during the past few weeks over the question of reduction of acreage seeded to wheat. After many proposals and suggestions had been discussed approval of "the principle" was arrived at, which suggests that some progress had been made. Australia has been a strong dissident and even now refuses to accept unless European nations co-operate.

WHAT RUSKIN SAID SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"The lawful basis of wealth is, that a man who works should be paid the fair value of his work, and if he does not choose to spend it today, he should have free leave to keep it, and spend it tomorrow. Thus an industrious person working daily, and laying by daily, attains at last the possession of an accumulated sum of wealth to which he has absolute right. The idle person who will not work, and the wasteful person who lays nothing by, at the end of the same time will be doubly poor—poor in possession, and dissolute in moral habit; and he will then naturally expect the money which the other has saved. And if he then is allowed to attack the other, and rob him of his well-earned wealth, there is no more any motive for saving, or any reward for good conduct; and all society is thereupon dissolved, or exists only in systems of rapine. Therefore the first necessity of social life is the enforcement of natural justice in enforcing the law—that he should keep who has justly earned."—John Ruskin.

OLD-TIMERS EXPECT RECORD ATTENDANCE JULY 19

Wednesday, July 19th, will be a date to be borne in mind by many throughout Central Alberta as the day of the monster Old-Timers' Public Picnic and Barbecue which will be held at their beautifully shaded picnic grounds on the west shore of Dried Meat Lake, located about 15 miles south of Camrose.

A year ago a group organized an Old-Timers' Association, purchased some delightful park land bordering on Dried Meat Lake, and held a public picnic and barbecue, to which it is estimated about 1500 persons attended. All had such an enjoyable get-together that it was planned that the event was to be an annual one.

All are expected to bring their lunch baskets and plan to spend the entire day. At around noon barbecued meat and coffee, or hot water for tea will be provided for all. After lunch there will be races for children, baseball and softball games, tugs of war and horse-shoe pitching tournaments, for all of which cash prizes will be offered.

During the afternoon platform entertainments will be provided to suit the tastes of all; program consisting of musical, vocal, dramatic and acrobatic numbers, as well as short talks by a few choice, interesting speakers; and in addition possibly some comedy singing.

A spacious dance pavilion has been erected and peppy orchestras will provide music all afternoon and evening.

PRAISES MR. GLOOM

The serious person has his own uses in the well-being of a community. He may spread an atmosphere of damp chilliness over many a conversation, but he tends to act as a curb of unrestrained, and often unwise optimism. He prides himself on a bubble of inflated local ego before much damage is done. He reminds one that there is a world outside one's own little neck of the woods. Without him, there would be more regrets—probably more taxes to pay. Without him, the hot arguments at school-house, post office or community hall—so essential to a full enjoyment of our rural life—wouldn't be worth listening to.

Not! We may cuss and make fun at Mister Gloom, but we might all feel less happy without him. Variety is the spice of life. It takes shadow, with the sunlight, to bring out the beauty of a landscape; it takes the rain, with the sunshine, to produce the harvest.—Farm and Ranch Review.

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER

She wasn't in for politics. She never cast a vote. She simply lived and labored in a little home remote. She didn't go to church and teas. Her clothes were not the latest. But she was happy, knowing well The things that counted greatest.

Her family was a sailing ship That must be guided straight. With skilful hand that faltered not, Nor found the course too late. A captain, she, who sought no fame Yet served her country well, Whose mighty deeds of sacrifice No hero could excel.

But now she's called old-fashioned By mothers of today. Who find the greatest joy in life To be care-free and gay. But that old sweet love and courage Seem to me divine. And all I am I owe to her— That old-fashioned mother of mine. —Cleo Pauline Sutherby.

WHO'S CRAZY NOW?

A story was told in Innisfail on Monday of a Lacombe farmer who recently visited an old neighbor taking treatment in the Ponoka hospital.

The farmer got up at 4:30 a.m., went to the barn, fed and watered nine head of horses and 12 head of cattle, cleaned out the barns, milked five cows, fed the fowl, brought the milk to the house, and ran it through the separator and had his breakfast. He then got cleaned up, hitched a horse and drove to the hospital. Arriving there he put the horse in the barn, blanketed it, and threw it a sheaf of feed.

He found his friend in a private room with the bright sunshine pouring in, the latest newspapers and magazines arranged on a table and other signs of comfort evident. A nurse soon arrived with the patient's breakfast—orange, cereal and cream, a rubber of bacon, marmalade and coffee.

The visitor watched his former neighbor for a few minutes and then exclaimed: "I'm the one that's crazy."—Innisfail Province.

Negotiation were begun by the department of agriculture with the dominion government and the railway companies toward a revocation of the tripartite agreement for the movement of farmers from dried-out territory in the southern-central part of the province to more favorable locations elsewhere.

Union officials of the railway shop workers informed the railway association that they would not accept the proposed additional 10 per cent out in wages. The running trades are considering a strike. A board of conciliation will likely be asked for by the railways.

A reduction of about 500,000 acres in wheat acreage in the province was estimated to have been made this year as a result of natural causes. This is on the basis of somewhat over six per cent on last year's figures.

FLIES ARE "BABY-KILLERS" AND THEY MULTIPLY BY MILLIONS

One solitary house fly, allowed to settle on a plate of food, milk, or a baby's comfort, can deposit germs that will kill a little baby. Last year, at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, it was proved conclusively, after intensive research that the invisible poisonous specks deposited by flies are responsible for "Summer Complaint" or Infant Diarrhea which takes toll of hundreds of infant lives during the summer months. The common house-fly is also the cause of typhoid, cholera, dysentery and other deadly ailments.

With hot weather flies arrive and once here they start to breed and get in the deadly work. Doctors tell us that just as malaria is spread by destroying mosquitoes, so can infant flies be saved by destroying flies. Certain precautions suggest as protection of food, screening doors and windows, covering breeding places, etc., are not enough. All the flies must be killed for absolute safety. One of the simplest ways to effect this is to use Wilson's Fly Pads in the house during the summer. Two or three hours every day.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That the merchants of your home town are the merchants of the home town. Without them you would have no town.

As they progress so will your city prosper. The more prosperous they are, the more prosperous your town will be. If their business is poor, so will your chances of success be poor, your property will depreciate in value—your town will go back.

They are the men who give you credit when you need it. They are the men who guarantee the goods they sell you, and if the goods are not as represented they give you your money back. They are your friends, your neighbors. They are the people who pay heavy taxes to support your schools, your churches, and they talk and host for your town all the time. These men are the ones your town must depend upon for development. Better business for your business men is the way to build your town into a bigger living community. Boost good business for the home town!—Exchange.

W.T.U. ESSAY CONTEST

The following essay by Jack Brown won second prize in the contest for Grade VII:

My Budget

On leaving school I obtained a position earning $780 a year. This is the way I arranged my budget: Amount spent on food $200; on clothes $152; on church $75; on charity $50; on amusement $100; in bank $100.

These are my reasons why I made no allowance for tobacco or intoxicating drinks: By buying tobacco or intoxicating drinks one may not get the necessities of life. Tobacco interferes with the control of the muscles and it injures the mind. Both of these lower one's standing. Alcohol often causes homeless and friendless children.

JAPAN'S PEARL CROP

The pearl plantings in Japan this year, in contrast to most crops, will be the largest in years. More than 40,000 acres of quiet waters have been sown with more than 3,000,000 pearl oysters, and thousands of people are employed. The pearl crop being planted now will not be harvested for seven years.

Millions of seed pearls or tiny bits of mother of pearl, are skillfully inserted into living oysters for the pearl crop. The oysters slowly proceed to cover these irritants with a secretion which transforms them into pearls. The oysters are brought to the surface, cleaned and treated, to prevent disease. Some 60 per cent of the oysters bear fruit, but only about five per cent are marketable. The annual crop is valued at several million dollars.

IN UP-TO-DATE STABLES

—Old Reliable Minard's

When horses come in to stable with wire-cuts or saddle boils, or cows have caked teats, he has to do it to get the Minard's bottle at once, as Mr. Dowd of Glenboro, Manitoba, knows. He writes:

"I like your Minard's Liniment. Like to have it in the house. I have found your Minard's Liniment especially good for barbed wire cuts on horses." A family doctor prepared Minard's Liniment over 50 years ago. Still invaluable in every stable and every house.

FARM TRACTOR WITH AIR BAL- LON TIRES MAKES RECORD

Enthusiasm of farmers for pneumatic tire tractors is making tractor manufacturers develop higher speeds to make the tractor more valuable for hauling or travel, and for use as an all-purpose farm machine. The most interesting speed record to date is the recent AAA record of 35.4 m.p.h. for five miles made by a tractor at the Wisconsin State Fair Grounds AAA race.

Thousands of people watched Albert Schroeder, a prominent Wisconsin farmer, using a new standard farm tractor equipped with the new Firestone Low Pressure Tractor Tire, plow several rows of the hard uneven ground inside the race track oval. Mr. Schroeder then unhitched the plow and turned the tractor over to Frank Briggs, famous race driver, who was one of the leaders in the Indianapolis Race this year. The crowd was amazed to see the tractor streak down the straight stretches—at times traveling 40 miles an hour.

The new highway speed and comfort now available in farm tractors shows how completely the tractor, with these big tires, serves as an all-purpose machine. Demonstrations have proved to farmers that tractors using these tires give greater fuel economy in farm operations, greater traction, do not pack seed beds, make the farmer's work easier, and save time as well as money.

WHAT STARTED

"BETTER TIMES?"

"Better times in Western Canada" is a heading frequently seen in Eastern Canadian newspapers these days. Certainly the statistics show that there has been an improvement in business in the west due to the encouragement offered by better wheat prices. Of course most of last year's crop has left the hands of the primary producer so exceedingly few have benefited by the spectacular ascent in wheat prices. But there is a more hopeful attitude on the part of the people.

It should not be overlooked that the change has been caused principally by radical policies adopted by the new government of the United States.

from 25c to 30c of the per bushel increase in the price of Canadian wheat which is so cheering to all Canadians is due to the befevilled policy of inflation.

"Canada is an integral part of North America," Premier Bennett remarked a few months ago. What he probably meant was that this country is virtually dominated by the activities of the huge republic to the south of the boundary line. The truth of the statement is being well evidenced right now. The United States inflated her money and Canadian money is automatically inflated. The United States boosts wheat and commodity prices and our wheat and commodity prices follow suit.

The "hand-patters" who for nearly four years have been preaching the doctrine of passivity, while the country has gone from bad to worse and direful prospects appeared on the horizon, have been somewhat bewildered by the swift changes, but not dumfounded. Many of them are now cheering for the things they condemned a few months ago.—The Budget.

Holborn, July 7.—Col. H. H. Palmer, D.S.O., Indian agent here, was made a chief at an interesting ceremony during the two-day stampede on the reserve. Col. Palmer was christened Chief Thunder-Child or Pee-asee-o-wassie. Gay crowds saw good riding of bucking horses and lively horse racing.

A NON-PRODUCTION BONUS

United States millers are to pay a tax of thirty cents a bushel on wheat, while they grind into flour for home consumption. They will of course pass the privilege of paying this tax along to the consumer. As a matter of business they will pass along something more than the amount of the tax. The thirty cents will be added to the cost of wheat to the consumer. The consumer will be invited to pay them a profit on the money they pay to the government, as on the money they pay to the farmer or the grain dealer.

Taxation grows as it rolls along, like a snowball. The two-cents-a-pound tax on sugar in Canada raised the price to the consumer somewhat more than two cents a pound. The money thus collected through the millers from the flour consumers is to be paid to farmers as a bonus on wheat they do not grow. The government is to hire them to grow less. That is part of President Roosevelt's domestic policy. It aims to reduce the supply of wheat and thus force up the price, in the United States.

The arrangement will be hailed with joy by the United States farmer. The less wheat he is allowed to grow, if he gets thirty cents a bushel for wheat he could grow but doesn't, the better for him. The miller will be out nothing. If the consumer doesn't object there will be no kick coming from any quarter; least of all from the Canadian wheat grower.
